

It is outrageous that Sinclair Broadcasting is allowed to use public airwaves to air the anti-Kerry piece "Stolen Honor." Airing this just prior to the election is a bold slap in the face to the democratic process and shows just how dangerous the highly-concentrated ownership of media outlets can be.

It is the FCC's responsibility to guard against such abuse of the public airwaves, and your inaction in this case smacks of corruption and is dangerous to the principles of an informed democracy.
